

As I understand it, New Jersey has a stricter "Do Not Call List" than the one created by the federal government. I am happy to report that unwanted solicitation calls have dropped to virtually none (a few surveys and nonprofits).

As I understand it, The Federal Communication Commission is considering overturning New Jersey's law. I think that would be a mistake. I hope that the FCC will leave New Jersey's law the way it is so that I can spend my time with my family uninterrupted by unwanted calls.

Thank you,
